Introducing your Clinical Nurse Specialist:

Gail Prout

Macmillan Clinical Nurse Specialist
for Skin cancers

As you are starting treatment at Mount Vernon Cancer Centre, I would like to introduce myself to you and explain how I may be able to help you throughout your time in our care.

My name is Gail Prout. I am the Clinical Nurse Specialist with responsibility for patients with skin cancers.

My role is to be a key point of contact for you here at the Cancer Centre. I will be involved in the co-ordination and organisation of your individual treatment programme and work closely with other members of your treatment team.

Starting treatment for cancer can be a confusing and worrying time for you and your family and it is my role to help reduce the stress and anxiety that you may be experiencing.

I will usually try to meet you at one of your first appointments at the Mount Vernon Cancer Centre. If you are staying in the hospital overnight, please ask one of the nurses to contact me and I will try to visit you on the ward.

Some of the ways in which I may help you include:

- Explain your diagnosis
- Explain your test results and treatment options
- Provide you with written information
- Assess and advise you if you are concerned about any side effects of treatment
- Assist you and your family to manage your health at home both during and after your treatment
- Explain current research and information from websites and the media
- Offer support and signpost you to appropriate services, eg, counselling
- Advise you on how to apply for financial welfare benefits
- Liaise with the multi-disciplinary team (MDT) treating you
- Liaise with your GP and/or local hospital as appropriate

Support Groups

Support groups are self-help groups for people affected by cancer to share feelings and gain mutual support.

They offer a range of services, such as meetings, telephone helplines, drop-in centres, home visiting, information and practical help. Some have complementary therapists or provide information about therapies.

You can obtain a list of local groups from the Lynda Jackson Macmillan Centre (see overleaf for details).
